A Stylistic Analysis of Iqbal's Shikwah

Sardar Fayyaz ul Hassan

Abstract

Stylistics is a newly developed branch of linguistics. It studies a piece of literature through linguistic choices. It is a link discipline between linguistics and literary criticism. Pedagogical stylistics helps the learners to appreciate a literary text particularly, a poetic piece, in a faithful and objective way. The present paper is a Stylistics analysis of Dr. Mohammad Iqbal's Shikwah, a famous poem which is appeared in his book "Bang-e-Dra", the call of the road.

A Stylistic Analysis of Iqbal's Shikwah
1. Introduction

The aim of this research is to analyse the famous poem of Dr. Mohammad Iqbal’s ‘Shikwah’, (Complaint). The poem is analysed from a perspective of linguistics stylistics. This paper starts discussing the background and points out the research problems. It observes the objectives, states the significance, mentions the Research Methodology and looks into the related literature review. This paper ends with a conclusion that has been drawn on the base of the detailed stylistic study of Iqbal’s Shikwah.

1.1 Background

According to Bassnett and Gundy (1993):

Literature is a high pint of language usage; arguable it makes the greatest skill a language user can demonstrate. Anyone who wants to acquire a profound knowledge of language that goes beyond the utilitarian will read literary texts in that language. (p.7)

Traditionally, literature is regarded to be the prerogative of certain people who are endowed with certain faculty for understanding literature. Literature is beyond the reach of common people. It is something mystic and should not be corrupted by linguistic analysis.

Doing linguistic analysis is laying a flower at botanical table which destroys its beauty. A flower is to see and admire. But on the other hand, modern approaches investigate that literature is made of language so lies within the preview of linguistic study.

The analysis does not destroy the beauty but enhances it. So, literature can be demystified and can be analyzed. Literary criticism explains literature subjectively. From Aristotle to Eliot, almost all the literary work was analyzed and evaluated from a perspective of subjectivity. Saussure and Jakobson developed course of stylistics in twentieth century.

Rhetoric is ancient and pre-modern discipline which was the part of Greece grammar and logic provided the basis for stylistics. It is an art of speaking effectively in public.

N. Krishnaswamy writes in this context (2004):

In Rome it was developed by Cicero and Quintilian, and during the middle ages rhetoric was a key subject in university education. Renaissance reviewed the interest in the Greek models but in 18th and the 19th centuries, the art of rhetoric declined and, in a way, it was gradually absorbed into linguistics. In the twentieth century the re-incarnated form with a new interest in literary style is known as stylistics. (p.133)

In 1920s Russian Formalism introduced it in a new way and Roman Jakobson's 'Closing Statement' which he had presented in a famous conference, held in 1958 on style, became the manifesto of stylistic studies. Comparatively, stylistics is a new area of study. It appears in the domain of language study at the start of 20th century. Swiss linguist Charles Bally developed it initially in two directions, linguistic stylistics and literary stylistics. The first is represented and theorized by Bally himself and the second one is represent by Karl Vossler.

Krishnaswmy, John Varghese and Sunita Mishra (2004) write in this regard:

Linguistic Stylistics, based on linguistics, streams off into Structuralism and Structuralist Stylistics, the Prague School Stylistics, the Neo-Firthian Functional Stylistics, Transformational Stylistics and so on. Literary Stylistics, as advocated by Spitzer and his followers in 1940s is more subjective than objective as possible; like Chomsky's 'Linguistic Competence' and Hymes' 'Communicative Competence'. (p.135)

Ancient Greece used to recognize language in terms of practical Functions, known as Rhetoric, Poetics and Dialectics. The objective of Rhetoric was to prepare the speakers for active and attractive speeches but unlike Rhetoric, Poetics aimed at Studying a Piece of art to focus at the problems of expressing the ideas before actual moment of utterance.

Dialectics was another technique of creating and guiding a dialogue, talk or discussion. Stylistics developed on the base of the above mentioned sources but poetics went on its own way and created the field of literary criticism. However, Rhetoric and Dialectics developed into stylistics.

The researcher has highlighted this process of development by a self-devised diagram, given below.

1.2 Objectives

There are two basic reasons for studying and teaching literature in any language program or in general: cultural and linguistic. In cultural sense the main objective is to find grounding in target culture and getting familiarity with history, various ages, movements etc. whereas linguistic purpose is how to understand the language of literary texts. Understanding the language of literature through linguistic tools is now a widely accepted notion in the field of foreign language teaching literature.

Stylistics is an interdisciplinary approach which seeks to integrate language and literary studies in a way that they inform each other. It is also believed that literary critic is deaf to linguistics insights and a linguist who does not take literature into account are 'flagrant anachronisms' (borrow the term from Roman Jakobson). Since literature is made of language and linguistics is a systematic study of the language, their syntactic and semantic relations with each other are obvious.

In this research, the researcher realizes that the stylistic-study recognizes the importance of paying a systematic attention to the language of a literary piece. Just as painting cannot be interpreted without allowing for the colour scheme, their combination and contrast etc., similarly no literary text can be understood properly without paying a systematic attention to the way the language has been structured.

The objective of this research is to study and analyze Mohammad Iqbal's Shikwah (complaint) according to the notion of modern stylistics. This study is tailored in a linguistic fashion. The final destination of this research is to find out objectively how he uses different linguistic techniques in his poetic language. An endeavour has also been made to demystifying the meaning of the selected poem of Mohammad Iqbal with the help of stylistic techniques. For this purpose the researcher also maps out the language of Shikwah for lexical and phonological features.

1.3 Significance of Study

According to the knowledge of the researcher, not enough attention has been given to the language-oriented or text-centered approach in analyzing and understanding the poetry of Dr. Mohammad Iqbal. So, the researcher intends to apply a stylistic approach in analyzing and comprehending the selected poetic work of Dr. Mohammad Iqbal. In this regard, the researcher selects Iqbal's Shikwah from the domain of his Urdu poetry for stylistic study. Stylistics is one of the wonderful approaches to analyze and appreciate literary work. This approach is considerably descriptive. Stylistic study is focused on finding out the meanings that lie behind the lines of the poem on an objective basis. Ones' personal sentiments do not involve in this kind of analysis.

1.4 Research Methodology

This research work concentrates on the selected poetic work of Dr. Mohammad Iqbal. The nature of this research is analytical. So, the researcher uses various approaches to achieve data for this study but mainly he gets benefits from the published material.

1.5 Literature Review

According to Wikipedia (modified on 15 March 2010), "Stylistics is a branch of linguistics, which deals with the study of varieties of language, its properties, and principles behind choice, dialogue, accent, length and register."

H.G. Widdowson (1986, p.4) defines stylistics as, "The study of literary discourse from a linguistics orientation." To Leech (1985) stylistics is the study of the style which can be applied in both literary and non-literary texts. In a non-literary text, style is learned because we want to explain something, while literary stylistics explains the relations between language and artistic function. According to Gabriela Miššíkova (2003):

"Stylistics is a field of study where the method of selecting and implementing linguistic, extra-linguistic or expressive means and devices in the process of communication are studied."

Short (1996) believes that stylistics is a linguistic approach to study the literary texts. In other words we can say that stylistics studies literary texts using linguistic description. Short also shows his interest not only in the (linguistics) forms of he analyzed texts (i.e. How), but he also studies the meaning (i.e. what) of the text in the sense of plot and overall message of a story. From this point of view short (1996, p.1) further says, "Stylistics can sometimes look like either linguistics or literary criticism, depending upon where you are standing where looking at it". Stylistics is an area of meditation between language and literature (H.G Widdowson, 1986, p.4). Considering the multi-faceted nature of stylistics and its relationship with linguistics and literary study, Nils Erik Enkvist writes in Linguistic Stylistics:

"We may --- regard stylistics as a subdepartment of linguistics and give it a special subsection dealing with the peculiarities of literary texts. We may choose to make stylistics a subdepartment of literary studies which may draw on linguistic method. Or we may regard stylistics as an autonomous discipline which draws freely, and
Some scholars understand 'stylistics' as a controversial branch of language study. Crystal and Davy have pointed out towards this issue. They write that stylistics has been considered "a developing and controversial field of study for several decades." (Longman1969, p.vii) The well-known linguist Jean-Jacques Lecercle (1993, p.14) does a serious attack on stylistics and says that nobody has ever known what the term 'stylistics' means, and in any case, hardly anyone seems to care. (The European English Messenger 2, 1, 14-18). He calls stylistics 'ailing'; and according to him it is on the 'wane' in one hand but on the other hand he himself accepts that "more alarming again, few university students are eager to declare their intention to do research in stylistics". ( Paul Simpson 2006, p.2)

Though Lecercle had prophesized that at the end of 20th century this discipline would be no longer anymore but opposite to what he had envisaged "stylistics in the early 21st century is very much alive and well. In this context, Paul (2006, p.2) points out:

It is taught and researched in university departments of language, literature and linguistics the world over. The high academic profile stylistics enjoys is mirrored in the number of its dedicated book-length publications, research journals, international conferences and symposia, and scholarly associations.

During last decade many eminent scholars have published valuable books on stylistics. Mick Short and Geoffrey Leech are the leading figures in this field. Especially Leech's Language and Literature; Style and Foregrounding (2008) is accepted by the scholars as another of his classic works in stylistics after his A Linguistic Guide to English Poetry (1969).
2. Iqbal's Short Biography

According to official record (http://prr.hec.gov.pk/Thesis), Doctor Sir Mohammad Iqbal was born on November 9, 1877 in Sialkot Punjab province of British India which is now included in Pakistan. Iqbal's forefathers belonged to Kashmiri Pandit family and they "embraced Islam two hundred years earlier" (YesPakistan.Com). He got his basic education in Sialkot. Here he got a chance to be the student of Allama Mir Hasan who "gave Iqbal a thorough training in the rich Islamic Literary tradition. His influence on Iqbal was formative" (allamaiqbal.com).

When the British Governor announced (1922) to give away the title of 'Sir' to Iqbal to acknowledge his literary accomplishments, he asked the same award for his teacher but the governor gave the remarks that he had not written any book."Iqbal responded that he, Iqbal, was the book Mir Hasan had produced" (Ibid). So the teacher of Iqbal, Allama Mir Hassan was awarded the title of Shams al-‘Ulama’ means, 'Sun of Scholars'.

In 1899, he did his M.A in Philosophy from Government College Lahore and served for six years as a lecturer in Philosophy at the same institution. “He had already obtained a degree in law in 1898” (allamaiqbal.com). He stayed in Europe from 1905 to 1908 where he studied Philosophy at Trinity College, Cambridge (V.G.Kiernan: xi). He qualified as a barrister at London’s Middle Temple in 1906 and earned a PhD from Munich University in 1908 (allamaiqbal.com).

On his getting back to India, he practiced as a lawyer from 1908 to 1934 but his health did not allow him to continue the legal practice further. In fact, his heart was not into it. So, he gave up this profession and devoted himself to studying philosophy and literature. Iqbal wrote in Urdu, Persian and English Languages in both the genres of literature, i.e., prose and poetry but poetry gave him an immense popularity throughout the world.
The following table summarizes the work of Iqbal, (allamaiqbal.com, Wikipedia, yespakistan.com & Kiernan: 2003).

Iqbal was not only a poet and philosopher but also a political thinker. He was very much concerned about Muslims' affairs throughout the world in general and in Indian Subcontinent in particular. In 1908, he became the member of the executive council of Muslim League. He represented Indian Muslims in Round Table Conferences in 1931 and 1932 held in England.

In his famous presidential address at Allahabad (December1930), Iqbal raised his voice for a Muslim State in India. He said (allamaiqbal.com. Retrieved 2010-11-09):

I would like to see the Punjab, North-West Frontier Provinces, Sind and Baluchistan into a single State, Self-Government within the British Empire or without the British Empire. The formation of the consolidated
North-West Indian Muslim State appears to be the final destiny of the Muslims, at least of the North-West India.

During the last phase of his life though, Mohammad Iqbal remained constantly ill but did not give up his creative activity. Even a few minutes before his death he uttered the following beautiful lines (yespakistan.com, allamaiqbal.com):

The departed melody may return or not!
The zephyr Hijaz may blow again or not!
The days of this Faqir has come to an end,
Another seer may come or not!

His last breaths broke down in the early hours of April 21, 1938, in the arms of his old, faithful and devoted servant Imam Al-Deen, and a faint smile was playing on his lips like a truthful Muslim. (Nadwwi, 2002)

3. Stylistic Analysis

3.1 General explanation of Iqbal’s Shikwah (The Complaint)

The early twentieth century was the prime time of Iqbal’s poetic revelation "which is called his third period that began in 1908 and ended at his death in 1938", (allamaiqbal.com). He wrote Shikwah (the complaint) and Jawab-i-Shikwah (response to complaint) during the period, mentioned above. This poem is included in his famous book, Bang-i-Draw –The Call of the Road (1924), which is also the part of his Kulliyat (collection of the poetry). Shikwah is 88th poem of the 3rd edition of Kulliyat-i-Iqbal (1996 p.163). This is one of the most thrilling poems of Iqbal. He himself recited it in April, 1911 in the annual session of Anjuman Himayat-i-Islam (AHI), held in the compound of Islamia College, Lahore (Ibid).

Shikwah created an intellectual confusion among Muslim scholars "who thought that Iqbal is being rude and harsh in his words when talking to God..."(Wikipedia) but at the publication of Jawab-i-Shikwa (response to complaint) in 1913, the confusion went away and everyone started praising Iqbal for his contribution in the domain of Urdu poetry (Ibid).
Shikwah is categorized into Musaddas, "a genre of Urdu poetry in which each unit consists of 6 lines-sestain- misra" (Wikipedia, last modified on 10 November 2011). Musaddas of Hali is an example of this famous form of Nazam (poem) in Urdu Poetry.

3.2 Linguistic Stylistic features

3.2.1 Lexical Compounds (LC)

Shikwah consists of 31 Bands (stanzas). Each stanza consists of six verses. Words in Shikwah have been selected very carefully. The following grid manually counts the lexical items, used in the said poem:

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Total Words(TW)</th>
<th>Non-Compound Words(N.CW)</th>
<th>Total Compound Words(CW)</th>

In Shikwah, the poet appears with his feelings at three stages. These stages intend:

i. to count chivalrous deeds
ii. to show the state of decline of Muslim nation
iii. to make a direct complaint to God.
The compound words, which are 10% of the total lexicon of the poem, make semantic coherence with the idea as expressed in the above mentioned three points. The following tables (3, 4, & 5) present the examples of this claim.

3.2.2 Anaphoric Repetition of Lexical Items

In Greek language anaphora means "carrying back" Katie (2001, p.19). Parallelism is a technique that involves in repeating the same word at the start of successive clauses, sentences or verses (Ibid).

Example:

How pleasant it is to have money, heigh ho!

How pleasant it is to have money.

(MARS 1985:88)

In this example, in both the lines, the word 'how' is repeated in the beginning. This is anaphoric repetition. Mathematically, it can be shown like (a …) (a …). Here 'a …' refers the repetition of words at initial position. According to Katie (2001) anaphora is a kind of reference in grammar and text studies, p.19. Wales quotes Halliday & Hasan (1976) who call... it an important aspect of "COHESION or connectedness of DISCOURSE" (Ibid). Muhammad Iqbal also uses this lexical repetitive technique in Shikwah (2007, p.19, 21 & 27):

1. (Stanza.9, Line 5-6)

KisNe Thanda Kia Atishkuda-e-Iran Ko? : KisNe Phir Zinda Kiya Tazkara-e- YazdaanKo? [kís nē tʰʌŋda kí:a aʈʂ[ŋdə:-i:ɾan̩ ko] : [kís nē pʰir zm̩a kí:a ʒɛ̂̄ŋkrə -i- jɒʒ Łan̩ ko] (Who made cold the fire-temple of Iran?) : (Who made alive again the memory of God?)

2. (Stanza.10, Line 3-4)

Kis Ki Shamsheer Jahangeer, Jahandar Huwi : Kis Ki Takbeer Se Dunya Teri Baidar Huwi [kís kí ʂɔmʃiɾ dʒɔ̃ŋgəɾ dʒɔ̃ŋdəɾ huʔiː] : [kís kí təkʰbɪɾ se ɭʊŋja ʈɛɾi bɛdəɾ huʔiː] (Whose world-seizing sward became world-holding): (From whose "God is great!" did your world awake)

3. (Stanza.13, Line 3-4)

Tere Kaabe Ko Jabeenon Se Basaya Hum Ne: Tere Quran Ko Seenon Se Lagaya Hum Ne [ʈɛɾe kабə ko dʒɔ̃bəːɪn̩əɾ se bɔːʃəɾ ɦəm n̩ɛ] : [ʈɛɾe qʊɾan̩ ko ʂɪn̩əɾ se ləɡəɾa ɦəm n̩ɛ] (With our foreheads we populated your ka'abah): (We pressed your Qur'an to our bosoms)

So, in [1] the initial words Kis Ne [kís nē], in [2] Kis Ki [kís kí] and in [3] Tere [ʈɛɾe] are the examples of anaphoric repetition. They occur in the beginning of each line.

3.2.3 Lexical and Grammatical Cohesion

Kaite (2001, p.303) points out that "poetic Language is popularly regarded as the most CREATIVE of discourses, original in its ideas and inventive in its FORMS". The creativity in poetic language is achieved through foregrounding and one of the patterns of creating this technique in a piece of literature is through linguistic choices. Linguistic choices may appear in the form of lexical and grammatical cohesion which can create semantic and conceptual cohesion.

A Stylistic Analysis of Iqbal's Shikwah
The title of the poem is 'Shikwah' which means 'complaint'. The researcher has calculated manually that ten percent (10%) of the total lexical items in the poem consists of compound words. Poet uses these words to express the conceptual theme of the 'Complaint'.

1. Ziyaan Kaar[zjan kar] --- loss-causer
2. Sood Framosh [su:dframof] --- gain-forgetter
4. Hama Tan Gosh [həm ʒən goʃ] --- remain all ears
5. Hum-nawa [həm-nova] --- a fellow –bard

The above words are adjectival compound in Urdu language. These compounds give meaning of direct 'Complaint to God' when interrogative adverb 'Kyun' [keɔŋ] (why) is inserted in the beginning of sentences to form Wh-questions.

Q1. Kyun Ziyaan Kaar Banun? (Why would (I) become a loss-causer?)
Q2. Kyun Sood Framosh Rahun? (Why would (I) remain a gain-forgetter?)
Q4. Kyun Hama Tan Gosh Rahun? (Why would (I) remain all ears?)
Q5. Kyun Hum-nawa Banun? (Why would (I) become fellow-singer?)

In the last two lines of first stanza, the poet has made an explicit complaint to God. He writes:

Jurrat Aamoz Mīrī Taab-e-Sakhun Hai Mujh Ko : Shikwa Allah Se Khakam Badahan Hai Mujh Ko
[dʒɔɾtʃ amoz məɾi ʒaːb -ɾ- sʊxan hɛ mʊdʒ ko] : [ʃikva ʔaləh se xəkəm bædəhən hə mʊdʒ ko]
(I have my courage of speech : I have --- dust in my mouth --- a complaint against God)

(Stanza1 Lines: 5, 6)
But the Persian noun compound "Khakam Badahan" [xakam baɾhɔn] (dust in my mouth) indicates the complaint is made politely not arrogantly.

3.3 Phonological Features

3.3.1 Alliteration

In sentence "Pat put purple paint in the pool" (CUP 2007, p.14) the aspirated bilabial plosive [pʰ] has repeated in the beginning of stressed syllable. The repetition of this initial sound at stressed syllable is called alliteration. Katie (2001, p. 14) uses the term "initial rhyme" for it and says, "Alliteration is the REPEAT of the initial consonant in two or more words".

Short (1996, p.10) shares the following lines of George Crabbe as an example of alliteration:

\text{A dreadful winter passed, each day severe}
\text{Misty when mild, but cold when clear}

(Tale 17: Resentment’, lines 351-2)

Here, /m/ and /k/ sounds are repeated initially in Misty and mild, cold and clear respectively.

Another example can be given from Shakespeare’s Romeo and Juliet. Romeo says:

\text{How silver-sweet sound lover's tongues by night,}
\text{Like softest music to attending ears}

(Act II scene II)

In first line the consonant sound /s/ is repeated initially in words silver-sweet and sound, and hence it aligns alliteration.

Iqbal too, uses this technique in his Shikwa to create musical effect. Following lines of the poem are taking up the technique of alliteration:

[1] Deen Azaanen Kabhi Europe Ke Kaleesaaon Mein

[giənə azanən kabʰi joraɾ kɛ kəliːsaon meŋ]

A Stylistic Analysis of Iqbal's Shikwah
(You yourself say who uprooted the gate of Khaibar?)

Sheher Qaiser Ka Jo Tha, Us Ko Kiya Sar Kis Ne
[fehr-i-qesær ka ḏзо ṭʰa us ko kia sər kis nê]
(That city of Caesar's --- Who subdued it.)

Stanza 9, L: 1, 2

[gydʒ ko tʃʰora ke rəsuː-ː-ʃrabɪ(S.A.W) ko tʃʰora]
(Did we abandon you, or did we abandon the Prophet of Arabia?)

Boutgari Paisha Kiya, Bout Shikani Ko Chora?
[buːtɡɔːɾi pɛʃa kia buːʃikɔːɾi ko tʃʰora]
(Did we make idol-making our profession, did we abandon idol-breaking?)

Stanza 21, L: 1, 2

In [1], [2], and [3] the Voiceless Velar Stop [k] is repeated in Stanza 6, Line 3, Stanza 9, Lines: 1& 2, Stanza 21, Lines 1&2 respectively and in Stanza 21, Line 2, Voiced Bilabial Stop [b] is repeated in the beginning of the words Boutgari [buːtɡɔːɾi] and Bout Shikani [buːtʃikɔːɾi].

In above examples, the [k] and [b] sounds create alliteration. These sounds also bind the concept which is expressed through the words.

3.3.2 Assonance

It is a type of half rhyme, used in poetic diction. Katie Wales (2001). In assonance, "the same (STRESSED) vowel sound is repeated in words, but with different final consonant (e.g. cough drop; fish 'n' chips"). (Ibid, p.33) Katie quotes an example of assonance from Tennyson which creates an expressive effect:

Break, break, break
On the cold gray stone, O sea! (Ibid)

A Stylistic Analysis of Iqbal's Shikwah
In the first line, in word 'break' the diphthong /eɪ/ has been repeated. This repetition is called 'assonance'. To Short (1969), short, front unrounded vowel /ɪ/ in words "withered, nipped and shivering" (p. 111) is assonance. It is repeated in the following lines of George Crabbe:

I like yon wither'd leaf, remain behind,
Nipped by the frost, and shivering in the wind; 'The Village'. I, 210-11

(Ibid)

Iqbal uses this technique of repetition (assonance) in his poetry abundantly. Below, an example of assonance is given from his famous poem 'Shikwah'.

Ae Khuda Shikwah-e-Arbab-e-Wafa Bhi Sun Le
Khugar-e-Hamd Se Thora Sa Gila Bhi Sun Le (stanza: 2 Line: 5/6)

[æ kuɡa ñikwa-ɾ-i-ɾɑɾb-e-ɾɑɾfa bʱiː sun le] (5)
[xuɡəɾ-ɾ-i-ɾɑɾmɡ sə tʰɔɾa sa ɡila bʱiː sun le] (6)

In the above example the [a] vowel is repeated four times in line'5' and three times in line'6' of stanza No.2 of Shikwah. The vowel [a] is also repeated in Perso-Arabic phrasal Compound [xuɡəɾ-ɾ-i-ɾɑɾmɡ]. This repetition of sounds in compounds "Khuda Shikwa-e-Arbab-e-Wafa" [kuɡa ñikwa-ɾ-i-ɾɑɾb-ɾ-ɾɑɾfa] and in "Thora Sa Gila" [tʰɔɾa sa ɡila] not only does create music in these poetic lines but also connect these compounds semantically.

3.3.3 Consonance

In Greek language it means to harmonize the sounds in a poetic line. A Dictionary of Stylistics (200, p.79) states consonance, a kind of 'half-rhyme' or 'end- alliteration'.

A Stylistic Analysis of Iqbal's Shikwah
According to http://wiki.answers.com:

Consonance is the repetition of consonant sounds within words. Consonance is very similar to alliteration, but the distinction between the two lies in the placement of the sounds. If the repeated sound is at the start of the words, it is alliteration. If it is anywhere else, it is consonance. In most cases, consonance refers to the end sound (like "nk" in blank and think).

The poetic diction of Iqbal's Complaint (Shikwa) contains consonance in large quantities:

[1] Hum Ko Jamiat-e-Khatir Ye Preshani Thi
    Warna Ummat Tere Mehboob (S.A.W.) Ki Diwani Thi   (Stanza: 3 Lines: 5/6)
    [hʌm ko ʤəmjaʃ-i-xaʃi je ɲoreʃani: ʧi: ]
    [væɾna ʊmət ʧeɾə mehbuʃ ki dʒiːvani: ʧi: ]

    Kya Tere Nam Pe Marne Ka Iwaz Khwari Hai?   (Stanza: 17 Lines: 5/6)
    [tæn -i- əɟɪjəɾ hæ rusvai: hæ naðaɾi: hæ ]
    [kia ɡɾə nʌm pə mɑɾnə ka ?vɔz xarəi: hæ ]

In [1], Stanza: 3, Bilabial Nasal [m], Dental Stop [t̪], Dental Aspirated Stop [t̪ʰ] and Frictionless Continuant Post-alveolar[r] occur in two lines to create consonance. The same sounds are repeated in [2] for creating the technique of consonance.

3.3.4 Rhyme

Rhyme scheme is one of the most outstanding features of poetic language. It is the repetition of the final sound of different lines of a piece of poetry.

According to Katie Wales (2001, p.346), "Rhyme is a kind of PHONETIC echo found in verse: more precisely, "PHONEMIC matching". Mick Short (1996, p.113) observes it more closely and writes:

Rhyme is usually reserved to refer to the final syllables of different lines of poetry when the vowel and syllable – final consonants
(if any) of the words in question are identical. Thus five can rhyme with live and alive. Slightly looser connections than this (e.g. five/fife) are usually called half rhymes, and if the rhymes occur in positions other than at the end of a line, they are usually called internal rhyme.

Example:

Wake! For the sun, who scattered into flight
The stars before him from the field of Night,
Drives Night along with them from He cav'n and Strikes
The Sultans' Turret with a Shaft of Light

(Edward Fitzgerald – The Rubaiyat of Omer Khayyam)

The ending words of lines 1, 2, and 4 of this stanza are flight, Night and light. These words end with the same final consonant sound /t/ that according to Katie (2001) creates an end rhyme. He further says, if words like June/moon; rose/toes occur within the lines they are called internal rhyme.

Iqbal has composed his 'Complaint' in rhyme scheme. Ending words of two parallel lines of the whole poem are in rhyme composition:

1. Rahun/ Rahun [rəhuːn/ rəhuːn] Stanza: 1 Lines: 1, 2
2. Ko/ Ko [ko/ ko ] Stanza: 1 Lines: 5, 6
3. Qadim/Shamiːm[qædɪː mʃəmiːm] Stanza: 3 Lines: 1, 2
4. Tera/ Tera [tera/tera] Stanza: 4 Lines: 5, 6
5. Ne/ Ne [nē/nē] Stanza: 13 Lines: 3, 4

3.4 Semantic Deviation

Semantics is the study of meaning. When a poet uses other than commonly used meaning of a word it is called semantic deviation. In semantic deviation surface level meanings are changed with the meanings at deeper level. This type of deviation is made by using different figures of speech like Simile, metaphor, irony, and hyperbole etc. According to Geoffrey N.
Leech (1969, p. 156), "Simile is an overt, and metaphor a covert comparison". Metaphor is a figure of speech that aims at understanding a kind of resemblance between two objects without starting the similarity in clear terms. (Hassan Ghazala, 2008, p.146). Poetry of Dr. Iqbal is packed densely with metaphorical expressions. Few examples from his Shikwah are being stated here:

1. Qissa-e-Dard [qisa-i-джард] (Tale of pain) Stanza: 1 Line: 2
2. Saaz-e-Khamosh [saz-i-xamоf] (voiceless lyres) Stanza: 1 Line: 3
3. Preshan Shamim [p̪ɛɾejan ʃɔmi:m] (worried breeze) Stanza: 3 Line: 2
5. Mai-e-Tauheed [me-i-ʧohi:d] (wine of oness) Stanza: 12 Line: 2
9. Aag Takbeer Ki [ag ʧakbiɾ ki] (the flame of "Takbir") Stanza: 21 Line: 5

4. Conclusion

The researcher starts this paper introducing the background, aim, significance, research methodology and the related literature review. After giving a short biographical sketch of the poet, he comes up to stylistic analysis of Shikwah, the selected poem of Dr. Muhammad Iqbal. This analysis starts explaining the poem generally, and then discusses different linguistic stylistic features of the poem. The researcher counts the entire strength of lexical items of the poem including different types of compounds. Table.2 explains this in detail. Iqbal appears in this poem with three different but inter linked themes. He counts the chivalrous deeds, shows the decline of Muslim nation and makes a direct complaint to God.
Compound words which are given in Tables 3, 4 & 5 carry out this theme. The researcher does look into lexical and grammatical cohesion in various compound words. Phonological features form the real face of poetic diction. The present paper also analyses the language of Shikwah from this perspective. The researcher finds the evidence of alliteration, assonance, consonance and the technique of rhyme scheme in the poem and presents them in this paper. Deviation is a departure from accepted norms of language. A poet deviates to foreground his piece of writing. In this research the researcher presents ten examples of semantic deviation from Iqbal’s ‘Complaint’.
